

A healthy community relies on a healthy environment.

We support a green, healthy, and engaged community with:

Access to local food

- Well-supported community gardens
- Local farmers’ markets
- Preservation of arable land for farmers

Healthy natural areas

- Protection of sensitive and unique natural places
- Green spaces and trails accessible to all residents, which provides low cost access to a healthy, walking lifestyle

We would like to make special mention of our support for Connect the Creek, which will “complete a linear park where residents of Sudbury and visitors to the city can connect back to nature in the heart of our urban environment.”

Healthy lakes and waterways

- Enjoyment of our ‘city of lakes’ now and for future generations
- Clean and healthy lakes and waterways via storm water management and planning decisions that protect or enhance water quality

Safe and convenient active transportation

- Complete and connected cycling routes, pedestrian friendly streets, and accessible public transit
- Healthy, efficient and sustainable transportation that meets all residents’ needs regardless of age and income and reduces congestion, pollution, and the cost of road repairs
